In this program, led by Professor Kevin Roddy students will visit Northern England. In this program, led by Professors Gina Werfel and Hearne Pardee, students will explore the French countryside. McPherson transforms the visual narrative in African American art. These quilts were kindly donated by Sandra McPherson, who used her vast collection to create quilts that go beyond their utilitarian purpose to convey family stories and social evolution, while many of the inspiration for her poetry writings, research and teaching. McPherson transforms the visual narrative in African American art. These quilts were kindly donated by Sandra McPherson, who used her vast collection to create quilts that go beyond their utilitarian purpose to convey family stories and social evolution, while many of the inspiration for her poetry writings, research and teaching. McPherson transforms the visual narrative in African American art. These quilts were kindly donated by Sandra McPherson, who used her vast collection to create quilts that go beyond their utilitarian purpose to convey family stories and social evolution, while many of the inspiration for her poetry writings, research and teaching. McPherson transforms the visual narrative in African American art. These quilts were kindly donated by Sandra McPherson, who used her vast collection to create quilts that go beyond their utilitarian purpose to convey family stories and social evolution, while many of the inspiration for her poetry writings, research and teaching. McPherson transforms the visual narrative in African American art. These quilts were kindly donated by Sandra McPherson, who used her vast collection to create quilts that go beyond their utilitarian purpose to convey family stories and social evolution, while many of the inspiration for her poetry writings, research and teaching. McPherson transforms the visual narrative in African American art. These quilts were kindly donated by Sandra McPherson, who used her vast collection to create quilts that go beyond their utilitarian purpose to convey family stories and social evolution, while many of the inspiration for her poetry writings, research and teaching. McPherson transforms the visual narrative in African American art. These quilts were kindly donated by Sandra McPherson, who used her vast collection to create quilts that go beyond their utilitarian purpose to convey family stories and social evolution, while many of the inspiration for her poetry writings, research and teaching. McPherson transforms the visual narrative in African American art. These quilts were kindly donated by Sandra McPherson, who used her vast collection to create quilts that go beyond their utilitarian purpose to convey family stories and social evolution, while many of the inspiration for her poetry writings, research and teaching.