LOCAL AND REGIONAL EVENTS

Kyle Dunn (MFA 2012), Present Tense

May 5-June 9, 2013
Headlands Center for the Arts
Marin Headlands

Kyle Dunn, MFA 2012 and Headlands Graduate Fellow for 2012-2013, is participating in the exhibition Present Tense. The exhibition runs from May 5 - June 9 at the Headlands Center for the Arts, Project Space. Opening reception is Sunday, May 5th from 12-5 pm in the Mess Hall Cafe Open.

Present Tense showcases new works created by Headlands’ 2012-13 Graduate Fellows during their yearlong studio residencies. Each of the artists contends with embedded histories, found within the landscape of the Marin Headlands itself, but also within their chosen media. Each examines and upends conventional studio practices to produce contemporary narratives within long traditions. New approaches for sculpture, photography, printmaking, painting, and installation are evident in the works featured in the galleries and in a series of site-specific projects staged inside and around Main Building 944. Also participating is Joshua Band (San Francisco Art Institute), Liam Everett (California College of the Arts), Michael Koehle (Mills College), Kari Orvik (UC Berkeley), Jordan Perkins-Lewis (San Francisco State University) and Yulia Pinkusevich (Stanford University).

Richard L. Nelson Gallery, Design Deliberation: An Exhibition of Three Competing Museum Designs

April 4- May 19, 2013
Richard L. Nelson Gallery
UCD

On April 3-4, the University unveiled three competing designs for the new Jan Shrem and Maria Manetti Shrem Museum of Art. The big reveal was the culmination of a design process that started at the beginning of this academic year with an open call for architect/contractor teams. After a series of campus and community conversations, three international teams were invited to participate in a formal design competition in December. The campus and local community were then invited to share in imagining our new university art museum.

Detailed drawings and architectural models for each team's submissions are on exhibit at the Nelson Gallery from April 4 to May 19.

On May 1, the University announced its selection: the emerging New York-based design firm SO-IL’s “The Grand Canopy.” SO-IL’s winning design envisions the campus’s planned art museum as a regional center of experimentation, participation and learning. For more information, visit the Jan Shrem and Maria Manetti Shrem Museum of Art (http://shremmuseum.ucdavis.edu/).

Roland Peterson (Art Studio Emeritus)

April 6- May 2, 013
Elliot Fouts Gallery
Sacramento

“Bay Area painter and printmaker Roland Petersen, best known for his abstract expressionist style and modern applications of color theory, will have twenty paintings on display in April at Elliott Gallery in Sacramento, CA. The show incorporates early examples of Petersen’s work, including pure abstractions dating from the late 1950’s, along with several paintings depicting perhaps his most celebrated subject, the picnic. Roland’s recent paintings, including two from 2013, are a testament to his verve and the desire to perfect his lifelong craft, even at the age of 87.” (Elliot Fouts Gallery)

Richard L. Nelson Gallery, Views on Migration: Jacob Lawrence & Elizabeth Catlett

March 28- May 19, 2013
Richard L. Nelson Gallery
UCD

Catlett is best known for her work during the 1960s and 70s, when she created politically charged, black expressionist sculptures and prints. In the 40’s, Catlett traveled to Mexico City where she studied painting, sculpture and lithography and worked with the People’s Graphic Arts Workshop, a group dedicated to using art to promote social change. She settled in Mexico City, eventually becoming a Mexican citizen and teaching at the National Autonomous University of Mexico.

Jacob Lawrence painted the Migrations series between 1940-41. His works explore his community's story of African Americans who journeyed from the rural south to the urban north between the World Wars in search of a better life, a movement known as the Great Migration. Events are in connection with Campus Community Book Project & The Office of Campus Community Relations.
Christopher Woodcock (MFA 2010), Take Me Away

After ten years of living in Boston Massachusetts, Bryce’s move to Davis left him feeling in exile from the urban city life he had become accustomed. However, the inspiration of the Northern California landscape and the emergent national fixation with the sustainable food industry quickly became an inspiration. As a result, his largely abstract work has been populated with figures and landscapes. The subject of the work revolves around a group of foodies who are not set in a specific time or space. These satirical pieces include groups of individuals on bikes, around grills, donning chef hats or handling other accessories, but with other comforts of the modern world unspecified. These characters battle each other with pizza peals and chef’s knives. They hold petty grudges over recipes and fight over truffle pigs. They wage war over food poisoning and have been exiled to a land that looks like Umbria, Tuscany or Napa. The foodies are nomads with grills banished to a life of locavore eating. The inspiration for the landscape these foodies in exile often find themselves in, and the composition of these groups are heavily influenced by the painters Giotto, Piero della Francesca, and Lorenzetti. For the last 4 years Bryce has been going to Italy to teach in the summer, and the Umbrian and Tuscan landscapes and light pervade the work. The body of work includes large and small oil paintings, collages, linocuts, and intaglio etchings.

Hong Zhang (MFA 2004), Three Sisters Bound to the Elements

In this exhibition, the sisters Hong, Bo and Ling Zhang display works dealing with three elements: water, earth and wood. The elements describe the state of nature and the interconnected relationship between them. Wood grows in the earth, the earth absorbs the water and wood needs water to grow. The elements are bound together. Thus, like the three elements, the individual works of the three sisters are bound together in one exhibition.

Undergraduate Research, Scholarship and Creative Activities Conference

Congratulations to three of our Art History majors — Maizy Enck, Daniel Trejo, and Sarah Bietz — for having their research accepted at the 24th Annual Undergraduate Research, Scholarship and Creative Activities Conference!

The Conference is an opportunity for undergraduates in all academic fields to present their research and is designed to acquaint undergraduates with the process and academic rigors of presenting research in a scholarly manner.

Jen Cohen (MFA 2011), Individual Artist Commission Grant

Jen Cohen has been awarded an Individual Artist Commission Grant in Media Arts from the San Francisco Arts Commission. This grant will help support the completion of "Juan Jaula: Folk Music for the XXIII Century" a non-traditional documentary about Mexican composer Guillermo Galindo's project training Mariachi musicians to perform a John Cage score.
