Course Objective: To widen and deepen our knowledge of Western choral repertoire, music history, music theory, and vocal/choral techniques.

Requirements: On Monday of each week, the instructor will upload a video to YouTube. Links to these private videos will be sent out via email. Accompanying the video will be a listening list of various choral performances. Members will commit to watching the video each week and listening to the assigned recordings.

Students who are registered for the course must leave a thoughtful comment and/or question in the comment section below each video by Thursday night every week. The instructor will then answer any questions on the following Friday.

In addition, registered students will be required to complete 10 lessons of the students’ own choosing on MusicTheory.net. Upon completion of each lesson, students will upload a screenshot jpeg of the final page of the lesson to Canvas. (See the assignment page for your course). These uploads will be due on the final day of classes, June 4th.

Grading System: If a student has completed all the assignments of the course on time, said student will receive a grade of P (pass). If any of the required comments or lessons is late or missing, the student will receive a grade of NP (no pass).
